My municipality is implementing.

What issues have we had with informal hearings that I should be ready for other than the obvious one of what if a defendant tries to subpoena the same.

Hi Sharon. Don Chisholm, in 44th, Royal Oak had been using video footage for a couple years at informal. I observed some of these hearings. As a general rule, I would say that video, viewed together in court, eliminates most arguments. Stay safe and healthy.

Lansing Police and MSP have submitted dashcam and body cam videos for years and they are very useful. I fully agree that they eliminate most arguments, but there are a few defendants that will continue to say despite evidence to the contrary that they did not violate the law. With all of my informal hearings on zoom these days, the police department has set up a computer that the officers can use to share their screen. They also help when the officer has recorded statements made at accident scenes.
